BUDDY. its in July. July 17th.

We're obviously having some issues in our relationship if you can't even remember my birthday

We need to talk about our relationship

So why don't u name some qualities that you think are important in a relationship.

youre gay

I never thought of that one! Good one!

ok.. that was a good exercise. But I'm gunna go. I hope u take the time to really think about what we just discussed. These are things that are really important to me. I'll phone u later to talk about your thoughts. ok? Have a good day thinking about me. Bye!

Hello! My name is Dr. Phil. I know you might be confused by why some of the things you said made your girlfriend mad. This is what I am here for! I will tell you where you went wrong and what you should have said differently to give a different outcome in the conversation

I know it might not seem like that big of a deal, but you didn't even ask how she was doing today after she had asked you. She thought that that was pretty inconsiderate. Next time try saying Hi darling how are you doing today!?The response you get from her will be a lot less sarcastic

So I know she didn't seem that mad about this one, but she buried it into her tiny little brain and was saving it for later if you got into a fight. kanye west... really? That was a trap. Your celebrity crush is HER. HER, HER, HER, Everything will always be her.

barney. Really dude? Again this was a trap... used for leverage in a later argument. Anyone of the twilight series movies will save you from surprise detonation

Well, you forgot her birthday month. AFTER FOUR GUESSES. Its July, just so you know. I would probably take a pen and a paper and write July down 100 times so you will never forget EVER. You could have totally avoided going into the whole 'relationship qualities' discussion and she would have come and picked you up in her private jet and you would have had a lovely day together.

Well, kind sir. My work here is done. I've done all I can do and I hope that you have taken my advice seriously. Best of luck chatting with your girlfriend next time.
